

Gemic – Call for Strategy and Innovation Interns

WHO WE ARE

Gemic is a human-centric innovation and strategy consultancy with offices in Helsinki and New York. We help some of the largest global companies solve their most difficult strategy challenges. Companies usually come to us when they need help ‘designing for discontinuity’, and reimagining their role in contexts that are multiplying in number and complexity.

As business-minded creative strategists, we are grounded by the methods of the social sciences and design, inspired by the humanities, and buttressed by the analytical rigor of strategy consulting. We are anthropologists, philosophers, designers, economists, sociologists, political scientists, and futurists. In other words, we are passionate interdisciplinarians who believe that specialization is for insects and organize our work accordingly. We hail from over 10 countries, speak more than 14 languages, and always work in small senior strategist-led teams that carry a project from inception, through research and strategy, into design-led solutions. More than anything, though, we care deeply about what the future will look like, feel like, and mean.

Needless to say, we know that in order to reimagine the future, the present must be unapologetically fun, healthy, and interesting, so in addition to a having some of the sharpest minds and personalities around, we offer our consultants long paid vacations, time off for creative and volunteer work, employer-paid health benefits, and a strong commitment to work-life balance and evening drinks.

THE GEMIC INTERNSHIP PROGRAM

We generally recruit our entry-level consultants through our full-time internship program. Internships are two to four month paid engagements, during which you’ll be based in one of our two offices, and be expected to hit the ground running as a key member of one of our project teams. In addition to being a part of every project phase (including potentially traveling for fieldwork and client meetings), you’ll have a senior team member as your mentor to support your development.

Helsinki Office:

The start date will be between April and June, 2016, with a duration of 2-4 months.

We will tailor the specific timing and duration with each successful applicant. You'll be offered a salary of 1500€/month, a round-trip ticket to Helsinki, as well as help in finding accommodation in the most livable city in the world.

New York Office:

Currently we only have openings for our Helsinki office.

WHAT WE LOOK FOR

We are looking for exceptionally creative, intellectually curious, brave and humble humans who have a demonstrated interest in business and a love for big challenges.

We are open to candidates from all backgrounds, with major bonus points for diverse global experiences.

Plus, these should ring a bell or two as well:

- Final year student, recent graduate, or young professional with an outstanding GPA from a top-tier university
- Know, love, and have strong opinions of the social sciences, humanities, or design
- Culturally and linguistically poly-gifted
- Easily distracted by intellectually exciting ideas
- Phenomenal at storytelling
- Kind and collaborative under pressure
